致謝（中文版）

你也許會想要寫一點中文的東西.

以及, 若你想感 (追) 謝 (殺) 一下這個模板的作者森珞璃子也不是不行啦.

雖然我覺得應該沒什麼人會用 LaTeX 折磨自己就是了.

當然也讓我稍微感謝一下桜坂璃子.

如果不需要的話整個 section 刪掉就好啦.

1   Introduction

Driven by escalating competition in traditional educational settings, the prevalence of supplementary tutoring beyond the standard school schedule has surged, becoming a prevalent tactic for students striving to secure an advantageous position in scholastic endeavors. It is extensively acknowledged that students hailing from lower socioeconomic status (SES) families tend to underperform academically compared to their higher-SES counterparts. (Zhou and Wang, 2015).

1.2 Figure, and my own thoughts

As you find this repository, you must would like to try this beautiful document preparation language. But, listen to me:

DON'T

My engagement with LaTeX somewhat mirrors an encounter in a covert, dimly-lit underground chamber. Enveloped in my vintage Lolita attire - appearing every inch the doll - I dangle aloofly from the ceiling. My eyes glaze with a touch of helpless desperation as I am punished repeatedly with errors each time I dare to compile my document.

Yet, in the throes of this torturous process, I find myself crying out for more – more – MORE! Let this not be a path you choose to tread. Employ a WYSIWYG editor if feasible. However, if the siren call of this forbidden yet exciting relationship proves irresistible and you yearn to surrender to this seductive creature, opt for using `R Markdown` instead. By all means, spare your thesis from the clutches of LaTeX.

But text only.
